How to Use this Self-Assessment Tool:

The Self-Assessment Tool is intended for congregations to utilize as you "look within" and begin discussions about what inclusion means to your congregation. It is meant as a starting point for you to you assess where your community is in regards to inclusion and where you want to be in the future. It is designed to be used internally by professional staff and key lay leadership, including Inclusion Committees.

There are two pages of this self-assessment tool. One page addresses areas of Architectural Accessibility and the other addresses the areas of Synagogue Life. Please review all sections before you begin to complete the checklist. Let us know of areas that we may have omitted.

- 1. Please take the time to walk through your facility and review materials with the eyes of inclusion.
- 2. Read down each column and then check all items relevant to your congregation today.
- 3. Look ahead to becoming an "ABLE Awarded" Congregation by meeting each of the criteria marked with a " *," with the goal in mind of creating a congregation made whole by all of its members.

Thank you for taking the time to complete this self-assessment. Please use the reverse of this page to let us know if you have any amplification about your responses, or any suggestions for improving this tool.

If interested, MetroWest ABLE will review the self-assessment in collaboration with your congregation. ABLE will use this initial self-assessment to develop a snapshot of our community at this time (without attribution to specific congregations) and in consultation with lay and professional leadership, develop different levels of inclusion that all MetroWest synagogues may aspire to achieve over time. ABLE will develop guidelines and best practices for MetroWest synagogues to implement so that our community will be as inclusive as possible. We also plan to make resources available to assist synagogues in reaching those standards.

Thank you very much for your active participation in this process.
